On September 27 2008, Good clinical practices introductory workshop GCP/ICH took place on the Saturn Room of the Hotel cosmos 100 in Bogota D.C. It lasted 6 hours.

This course was meant to gather health professionals (doctors cardiologist, nurses, researching assistants and study coordinators), who are interested in acquire the necessary knowledge and abilities to successfully participate, as conductors or monitors, in hemodinamia and intervencionismo cardiovascular research.

The second goal of this workshop was to be aware of how challenging is to work as a researcher or as an experimental researching studies monitor or coordinator, all under the good clinical practice researching terms.

The knowledge acquired during this workshop allows the attendants to identify the main steps or stages of a clinical research process, the ethic principles which the clinical research is under, the different functions of the researching team (Ethical committee, researchers, sponsors and monitors) and how to start conducting experimental studies, making sure of keeping a high quality on every stage of the process.

The workshop was conducted by three prestigious local lecturers, with 46 attendants from cities like Bogota, Barranquilla, Bucaramanga, Medellin, Pasto and Armenia. Besides the local attendants, we had two international attendants, Uruguay and Peru, respectively. This fact give to the workshop a comparative vision of the topics exposed.

Organization:

The program was developed through three conferences and three workshops, which allowed interaction among the attendants, as the acknowledge of new information to solve any possible problem. All this problems were based on the library given during the workshop and also they came from the different talks and discussions held during this period. (File attached)

Results:

The objectives were satisfied as well as the topics proposed by the lecturers.

Because the workshop was developed during a short period of time, the library and the material given during the workshop were enough to allow a further development and improvement on this field. The information was compiled in two books and 1 CD.

Surveys:

The Sociedad latinoamericana de cardiologia intervencionista SOLACI, among the different activities made to improve the clinical researching in the different institutions from the Society, sent a survey (attached) to verify the ability on these institutions to sustain researching process. The infrastructure and the different resources available on these institutions were the criteria used to develop this survey. The results of this survey are classified as confidential and they will be used exclusively by SOLACI.
